PREPARED BY THE LOUNGE'S FAVORITE COCKTAIL

St. Philip Neri Catholic Church in Reed City was the setting for the three o'clock wedding of Miss Jolene Marie Earnest and John Lee Marshall, both of Traverse City on July 17. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford J. Earnest of Reed City and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Leland C. Marshall of Grayling.

The bride was escorted to the aisle by her parents, where the Rev. Father Thomas Skuzinski performed the double ring ceremony. For her wedding, she chose a white skimmer style gown with a Gibson girl collar. Rows of lace accented the front and the long sleeves were complimented by pearl buttons taken from the wedding gown of her grandmother, Mrs. John Earnest, who was married in 1916. A cathedral length train edged in matching lace fell from her shoulders and her headpiece was of matching lace and held a cathedral length illusion veil. She carried a bouquet of white sweetheart roses, baby's breath, stephanotis and ivy.

Miss Patricia Ernest of Traverse City, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She was attired in a formal length skirt of lime green dotted swiss with a white sash with a Gibson girl styled long sleeve blouse accented at the neck with a cameo brooch. Her white swiss-braid picture hat was trimmed with lime ribbon streamers and she carried a wicker basket of multi-colored summer flowers with lime ribbons.

Mrs. Charles Hensley of Radcliff, Ky., sister of the bride, Mrs. Marylee Decalor of Grayling, sister of the groom and Mrs. Arlan Smock of Muskegon were bridesmaids. Miss Julie Smock of Muskegon was junior bridesmaid.

They wore dresses identical to the maid of honor only in colors of blue, pink, yellow and lavender, respectively. Curtis Marshall of Grayling served as his brother's best man. Groomsmen were Derald Stanton of Traverse City, Larry Hunter of Grayling and Arlan Smock of Muskegon. Junior groomsmen were Douglas Stanton of Traverse City and ushers were Greg and Gary Earnest of Reed City.

Mrs. Joseph Brabenec played traditional wedding music and accompanied Mrs. James Snider who sang "Ave Marie". A reception was held immediately following the ceremony at Lincoln Township Hall. Mr. and Mrs. Norman Earnest of Reed City, uncle and aunt of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. Willard Johnson of Gaylord, uncle and aunt of the groom, served as hosts and hostesses.

After a week's honeymoon in Eastern Michigan, the new Mr. and Mrs. Marshall are at home at 2001 Chippewa St., Traverse City.

Attend The Church Of Your Choice MAKE-BELIEVE

Scriptures selected by the American Bible Society

This is make-believe... tying a bundle to a stick and pretending to set forth on a great journey. His lively little imagination glows. Maybe, right around that bend in the road, he'll run smack into a big brown bear...

That's a "scary" idea. So he takes off his hat, puts down his bundle, and plays at home. Yes... it's fun to make-believe.

Home, just now, is his place. In it, he feels a wonderful sense of security, basking in his parents' love, knowing by instinct that they are there to help and guide him.

At night when he kneels to say his prayers, his mother tells him the story of Christ. She is preparing him for the day when he will become a more active part of the Church. She knows that, during his life, when he makes real journeys, the Church will be his home, and that it will help protect and guide him when she cannot.

Economics and Aesthetics

As antipollution laws become more stringent and more costly, some businesses are going to find it economically impractical to continue operating. Frequently, where plants have been forced to close, the companies are charged with a callous indifference to the welfare of the community and employees.

An official of a large forest products company expresses the view that, "... rather than set up an elaborate mechanism which is based on an assumption that when a management decides to close a particular plant it has some dark motive other than economics ... energies would be better spent in working to alleviate the consequence of such a shutdown ... The alleviation of such consequences is primarily a function of government — helping to restrain people, offering to help with voluntary relocation and otherwise cushion the transition."

Environmental closing of plants and factories can be held to a minimum if unnecessary laws and regulations are also held to a minimum. Pollution control involves economics as well as aesthetics.

Too Many Rotten Apples

In a special report, the magazine "National Review" presents the results of a survey it conducted among students at 12 representative institutions of higher learning in the United States. As these students graduated, "to take their places as citizens," National Review asks, "Along with their sheepskins, what spiritual and ideological baggage will they take with them?"

According to the magazine's survey, "Three fifths call themselves political liberals; fully 17 percent are self proclaimed radicals. Approximately half can't identify with either member of our cherished two-party system ... almost half favor the socialization of all basic industries; seven out of ten want their country unilaterally to suspend atomic weapons development ... Given the alternatives of war or surrender in a confrontation with the Soviet Union, 54 percent would have the United States surrender." A dozen sick universities don't make a sick society, but like a dozen rotten apples in a barrel, they can cause a lot of trouble.

Women drivers ... Kirtland Community College is offering an automotive class just for you — You will get a chance to hear about, and really see, for the first time, the vehicle you drive.

You will be able to ask questions regardless of how basic, and our understanding instructor will answer them all. You will learn how a car works — in plain language, what checks and inspections are necessary, and at what intervals. You will learn how to handle emergencies, such as flat tires, overheating, loss of oil pressure, broken fan belt, and brake failure. The class will even provide some experiences in minor repairs, if you are interested in that area.

White Grubs Invade Lawns

By Willard Bosserman
County Extension Director

Several people have called wondering how to get rid of white grubs which are killing the grass in their lawns.

Large brown spots are observed. Many white grubs are found from one to two inches below the surface. Often times evidence of birds and animals seeking the grubs have been seen. Letting the birds and animals control the insect larva would be ideal if they did a complete job, unfortunately they do not. Chlor-dane is the only material recommended for the control of white grubs.

A five or ten percent chlordane granule or dust is recommended.

The white grub is a larva of the May or June beetle. The adults appear in May, June and July. The females lay their eggs in the soil, preferably in sod. The eggs hatch in three or four weeks. The young larva feed on living roots. They burrow deep in the soil where they hibernate for the winter.

The next spring they come near the surface and feed actively all summer on roots of grasses. It is during this year that they do their greatest damage. They spread one more summer in the soil and emerge as adults in May, June or July of the third year.

The larva are a favorite food of moles. By controlling the grubs you can control the moles.

Women of the Moose

This last month, as publicity chairman, I found not much to write about. We have a few members on the sick list and in the hospital. We have one member, Reta Clark who has been in the hospital a long time, so let's see if a few of us can get up to see her, even if it is for only a few minutes.

Come on W.O.T.M. how about getting together and make up a calendar with dates for dinners in September. Have something doing, some get together, with some action.

We hope to have all our candidates who are to be enrolled on September 7th, at the meeting by 7:30 p.m. All members be there to show our new members how nice it is.

Remember on Sept. 3, the W.O.T.M. are having a chicken or meat loaf dinner.

IN MEMORIAM

I looked for my soul,
But my soul I could not see.
I looked for my God but,
My God eluded me.
I looked for a friend, and then
I found all three.

Is that a new dress?

Women are like this:

"It was worse than World War 3; it was just terrible," my wife was telling our 21-year-old daughter, Karen. "The people in front of us were hitting each other; blood was squirting all over and some splashed on my white stole. A man in back of us had a gun and started shooting at everybody. Little children were crying and an old woman fell down at my feet and couldn't get up . . ."

"When did you get a white stole?" Karen interrupted.

"I got it for only $24, marked down from $40, at Genesee Valley," my wife answered. "It was a wonderful bargain. And then I found these shoes . . ."

Thus is World War 3 forgotten.

When I write things like this, my wife always accuses me of "putting women down." Not true. I'm only reporting the facts, the way I learned in journalism school. And it is a fact that women are obsessed by clothing.

I grew up with 4 sisters who would trade sweaters with total strangers rather than wear the same outfit to school twice in the same month.

Now I have 2 daughters who live apart but visit each other's closets regularly. They spend entire weekends simply trying on each other's clothes. If men behaved that way, their wives would write worried letters to Ann Landers (Dear Ann: Oswald's brother Jack visited us last night and he spent 3 hours trying on Oswald's t-shirts. Do you think I should have a talk with my minister . . .)

But the strangest thing is when my wife appears in a new dress. "That's a new dress," I say.

"Don't be silly," she says, "I've had it for months."

For the first few years of our marriage, this fooled me. Then I gradually became convinced that I couldn't be wrong that many times. So I added a question:

"Have you ever worn it before?" I ask.

"No," she admits.

And so continues my education in Species Female. It turns out that Mabel doesn't buy a new dress because she needs it. She buys it because she went shopping with a friend, or because there's a sale, or because the store is air conditioned, or because her husband lost $200 playing poker, or because it's 2 p.m. Monday and yesterday was Sunday.

Mabel then hangs the dress up in her closet and may not wear it for months, even years. In fact, she may never wear it at all. It may go out of style, just hanging there.

This is difficult for most men to understand. When I buy a new suit, I wear it home from the store. I don't take it off for days.

By Jim Fitzgerald

I want everyone to know that I could finally afford a new suit. I wear it because I don't have anything else to wear. Otherwise, I wouldn't have bought it. That makes sense, doesn't it?

Not to the woman who gave me a pair of red slacks for my birthday and then was disappointed when I assured her I liked them and would wear them.

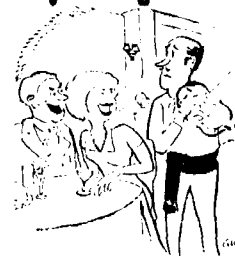

She was disappointed because she had been certain I'd reject the color. She'd bought them in the big city and had already planned a 3-day shopping trip built around the necessity of having to return the slacks.

2 weeks later I was telling her about a terrible auto accident I'd just seen. "12 people were killed, limbs were scattered all over the street," I said, "and I think I saw a body I recognized . . ."

She interrupted me: "Are you sure you like those red slacks?" Onward and upward.

Your reflexes may be lightning fast, but how about your brakes? Can they stop your car on the proverbial dime? How long has it been since you had a brake test?

According to many surveys, poor brakes cause approximately 30 percent of the accidents on highways. And unfortunately, the surveys also show that too many drivers put off checking their brakes until the defects are so pronounced they are dangerous.

In Pennsylvania, for example, where compulsory vehicle inspection is a semi-annual affair, authorities say one out of every three cars needs brake service. In a large city, compulsory inspection turned up a 30 percent rate on brake defects.

A random check of cars by a leading automotive business magazine showed every second car in need of brake attention. Defects ranged from minor pedal adjustments to replacement of critical parts, and two out of five needed relining.

In California, the State Highway Patrol conducted a study to determine the causes of some 400 accidents. They found that 115 cars had defects, over one-third of them in the brake system. Of the cars charged directly with mechanical failure, defective brakes caused 12 out of 27 accidents.

Compulsory inspections do help to find these defects, but not all states have such inspections, and not all drivers are conscientious about checking their brakes. So, what can you do to be on the safe side? Just keep a careful eye on the other fellow, and double-check your own brakes regularly.

SUNDAY'S SERMON

Count Ten
Many of us are unable to find true happiness in this world simply because we are always looking for it in the wrong places. We forget that happiness is not a place, but a state of mind.

How often do we set some distant goal, work and strive until it is achieved, only to find that while we do have a feeling of accomplishment, we wonder why the objective seemed so important in the first place?

Make a simple test. Write down the words, "Happiness is . . ." Now list ten wants or needs which you believe would make you happy if they were realized.

After you have made the list, check to see if you have listed the ten in order of preference. If you could have only one of these wishes come true, which one would you select?

Your choice will tell you the kind of person you are.

The Right Time

By Richard L. Millman

If you keep your ear to the ground around Michigan these days, you're liable to pick up a slight rumbling among the grass roots—if you'll accept a mixed metaphor.

It's not a groundswell yet, nor does it indicate a herd of buffalo is stampeding across the plains.

But this stirring of the grass roots appears to have some potential to turn into a real whirlwind.

That's the idea of the unicameral legislative system for Michigan government. State Rep. Joseph Swallow, Alpena Republican, is the latest advocate of the unicameral system. He wants to get a petition drive going to amend the state constitution to replace our present two-house state legislature with a single-body law-making process.

Swallow recognizes that there is no chance to get the idea approved by the legislature itself, so the citizen petition route is the only one available to adopt a unicameral.

Only one state has the one-house system now. That's Nebraska, where it was adopted as part of the wave of progressivism four or five decades ago.

But the unicameral system is not unique to Nebraska. Almost all city governments in Michigan operate with a single-body legislative system, where the various city councils or city commissions make up the unicameral.

All counties in Michigan also are on the unicameral system, with a single-body law-making plan. So are school districts, and townships. And on and on.

The two-house system gained its original merit when one house represented something other than the other house represented. For example, in congress, the House of Representatives is elected on the basis of population, while the Senate is filled on the basis of state representation.

This was the way it was in the state system, too, up until a few years ago. One house was generally based on population, the other based heavily on geography.

However, the United States Supreme Court now holds that states can't make laws on that basis anymore. The only acceptable criterion for apportioning legislative bodies, the court has said, is population.

Consequently in the Michigan legislature, both the house and the senate are filled on the same basis—on a strict population basis. Both bodies represent the same interests—masses of people. Which, of course, is not all bad.

Unicameral lawmaking is not a new idea. In many minds, it ranks along with other so-called good government techniques as an optimum idea—such things as non-partisan elections, and city manager forms of local government, and the Missouri plan to select judges, and other reforms of similar mold.

Several factors seem to bring the Swallow unicameral effort to the front at this point in Michigan history.

One is the emphasis on economy. Why pay 148 legislators to do the work that half that number, or fewer, could accomplish?

Another is the recognition that the one-man-one-vote dictum eliminates the basic differences between the constituent bases of the two chambers of the present legislative system. Why run a new law through the same mill twice?

Another is the feeling that the executive office, through the governor, is a sufficient check and balance on the legislative process, and vice versa.

And yet another—and the one that seems to be working most effectively on an emotional basis for legislative reform at this time—is what the public generally views as a rather questionable record of accomplishment of recent legislatures... such things as a continuing tax crisis, and budgets elapsing without timely replacement, and the inexorable tide toward full-time, year-round, high-priced legislating, with all the expensive trappings that go with it.

People are starting to talk about the unicameral system. Which may mean that Rep. Swallow is putting forth the right idea at the right time.

LIVING- AS YOU LIKE IT
...and get more from the GOOD YEARS
By Frankie Magout

A friend recently had this to say: "The trouble with retirement is that it comes at the wrong time of life. People build a lifetime developing work habits and a way of life; they get 'set' in their ways, then they are out to pasture and their whole world is turned upside down."

We asked at what period in life retirement would be more acceptable. In the friend's opinion, "When the individual is no longer productive and cannot return a fair day's work for a fair day's pay."

Here, obviously, is a man who wants to work as long as he is able. Nothing wrong with this attitude. Yet, who decides when the "fair" retirement comes — the employer or the employee?

Also, what our friend forgets is that some people actually look forward to retirement. They save for it; they plan for it. When the time comes, they are happy because they feel it is something they have rightfully earned.

Most employers have a reasonable mandatory retirement policy. Good business requires it. Just as good common sense dictates that we must have laws setting minimum age for driving permits, for voting privileges, for the right to purchase alcoholic beverages.

We must have "rules." To be happy, one must learn to live with the rules.

Jack Pine's Stump

Well, the Michigan Natural Resources Commission went and did its thing. In a monumental display of unconcern for anyone except the organized wading trout fisherman, this body of supposedly-aware people, has made recommendations for control of water use on the AuSable and Manistee which are frightening. In essence, no canoes or boats of any kind are to be permitted on vast stretches of river except between 7 a.m. and 6 p.m. And from the opening of trout season to the end of June the number of such boats and canoes is to be severely restricted. And on other sections of stream only those who own streamside property would be allowed to use boats on those waters. There are some good features of the recommendations. Things like permits for overnight camping, a ban on motors and anti-littering regulations. But in no way can these little goodies overcome the dangerous implications of the other recommendations.

The Commission was warned by an assistant attorney general for the State that he doubted if the Commission had the authority to impose such regulations. I would doubt it, too, but I'm no lawyer. I do know, however, that the AuSable and Manistee are declared navigable rivers and as such are considered to be public waterways. And a public waterway means a hunk of water that can be used by the public—you and me and the kids from the city who may only get one chance to have such a beautiful experience as a canoe trip down on of our lovely streams.

This action, if allowed to continue, will also probably put some of the canoe liveries out of business. It will restrict our tourist trade in the summer—which in great part is made up of people who want to use the river. I feel it will make people resentful of Grayling, property owners and fishermen. And maybe the DNR, but then I doubt if the DNR will take the responsibility. They'll find somebody else.

Consider, too, the professional guides or any of us who own riverboats. According to the regulations proposed, we couldn't be on the river before seven or after six. Many AuSable riverboats do most of their fishing outside of these hours. This time of the year, for instance, some of the best float fishing is to be found from dawn until nine a.m., or from six until dark. And in June, a lot of people are boat fishing long after dark. They do it in water far too deep to wade. So we have to give this up? Not without a battle, buster! And how about the person who fishes from a canoe? Has anyone considered that there might be a difference between canoeists — or are all people who are in canoes to be considered some sort of outcast?

Why would the Commission make these recommendations? Pressure, I suppose. Pressure from the organized trout fishermen. Well, maybe the "organized people" ought to be heard, too. There's a lot of us — fishermen, boatists, citizens concerned about the community. Write your State Senator or Representative in Lansing, write the Governor. These ridiculous rulings must not be allowed to happen.

As long as I am peeved at the DNR Commissioners, I might as well go on about the on-again off-again proposal to remove the ninety-year old dam which holds the backwaters of the Stump Pond in Grayling. Some of the fisheries people seem to think this pond is a sort of pot on a stove which routinely dumps hot water into the AuSable, causing all sorts of damage by increasing the water temperature. Earlier surveys, run by another government agency, do not show this to be the fact. However, the pressure persists that a quarter mile of wading water be added to the center of Grayling. This is to be done at the expense of almost a hundred years of ecological development, and the destruction of a lovely scenic view. It is strange indeed that the DNR has suddenly become aware of this horrible dam put up many years ago. If the concern is valid, and the DNR feels that dams which impound waters are bad for the river, then why in the name of Heaven did this self-same DNR construct impoundment dams at Conner's Marsh (over 600 acres) and at Big Creek (1000 acres) to release hot water into the AuSable? Or at Goose Creek on the Manistee.

"These truths I hold to be self-evident" — a dam is a dam, hot water is hot water, that canoeists are people and that mental constipation is an occupational hazard of those who propose DNR policy.

Crawford County Board of Commissioners

Regular meeting of the Crawford County Board of Commissioners held in the Court House in the City of Grayling on the 9th day of August 1971.

Meeting was called to order by Chairman Earl H. Longworth. Invocation by Mr. Knibbs. Roll Call. George P. Dunckley, Lawrence E. Gust, Fred Kauffman, Leonard H. Knibbs, Earl H. Longworth, Bernard Maurer, Albert Westervelt. All Present.

MOTION by Knibbs, supported by Maurer, to approve minutes of July Session. Roll Call. All Aye. Carried.

COMMITTEE REPORTS:

No report on Law Enforcement.

Mr. Westervelt reported on Personnel.

Mr. Robert Ruddy met with the Board and recommended that a competent secretary be hired for the Sheriff Department to cope with the present load of warrants being issued in connection with drug abuse and dispensation. The Board was made aware of the immense drug traffic in Crawford County, and its link with crime.

Mrs. Walter Truettner and Mrs. James Forbes attended the morning session.

Mrs. Lora Gould and Mr. Jack Alef met with the Board and discussed the Senior Citizen Program in Crawford County. The state has funded the program for three years. After July 1, 1972 state aid will cease, and they requested the County to appropriate funds in the amount of $6,500.00 to fund their program for one more year. The matter was tabled until preparation of the 1972 budget in October.

Mr. Albert Mitchell, Mr. Bernard Fowler, and Mr. Arnie Maurer, representing Grayling Airport Committee, and Dr. Steiger and Mr. Stewart, representing Kirtland College, met with the Board to get a definite answer on an Airport Authority because time is essential to activate the airport this year. The aviation school of Kirtland College is entirely dependent upon the facilities at the airport, and without ramp and hangar, the college cannot get approval for an aviation school. Estimated expenditure for 1971 is $18,000 with matching funds from State of Michigan, which would necessitate a tax levy of 2 or 3 of a mill. This would be under the power of an Airport Authority appointed and dismissed at the pleasure of the Board of Commissioners.

Mr. Bruce Benson, Prosecuting Attorney, informed the Board of the legal steps in creating an Airport Authority.

MOTION by Dunckley, supported by Gust, to draft and adopt a resolution showing the intent of the Board to act with another unit of government to set up an Airport Authority and to present said resolution to City of Grayling for their acceptance. Roll Call. Dunckley, Gust, Longworth, Westervelt, Aye. Kaufman, Knibbs, Maurer, No. Motion Carried. Moved by Dunckley, supported by Gust, that the following resolution be adopted:

RESOLUTION
BE IT RESOLVED that the Crawford County Board of Commissioners does hereby indicate its intention to co-operate, assist, and join together with the City Council of the City of Grayling for the purpose of developing, establishing, and appointing an Airport Authority for the mutual benefit of all the citizens of the County of Crawford and the City of Grayling.

Roll call. Dunckley, Gust, Longworth, Westervelt, Aye. Kaufman, Knibbs, Maurer, nay. Motion carried.

Dated: August 9, 1971.

Chm. Earl H. Longworth

The above resolution was duly adopted by the Crawford County Board of Commissioners on the 9th day of August, 1971.

Leo E. Lovely, Clerk

Mr. Sydney A. Dyer came before the Board to protest a double assessment on a piece of property owned by him and another piece owned by his son. The Board will take this matter under investigation with the Equalization Director.

Larry Hunter, Equalization Director, and Ella Belle Goodwin, Secretary, met with the Board regarding secretarial duties of that department and Sheriff Department, which have become too heavy for one secretary.

Mr. Victor Anderson met with the Board and requested a resolution from the Board of Commissioners to have the Waterways Commission of the Department of Natural Resources initiate hearing regarding motorboats on KP Lake.

Following people were interviewed individually for the position of Road Commissioner:

Morden A. Post, Ervin E. Richter, Joseph E. B. r u m a n, Ralph J. Sarrault, Richard W. Weber.

Mrs. James Forbes spoke to the Board about Grayling Centennial matters.

MOTION by Westervelt, supported by Knibbs, to adopt the resolution of the Centennial Committee that appeared in last week's Avalanche. Roll Call. All Aye. Carried.

Mr. Fred Kauffman, Parks Committee, read project agreement from State of Michigan, which will allow Grayling Municipal Park expenditures, with the exception of the footbridge.

Mr. Kauffman reported on Health. Contract for nurses of District Health Dept. No. 1 has been ratified.

Mr. Gust reported on Finance.

Hot pants are cool say the fashion models. With this a lot of wildlife will agree.

Did you know that during hot weather birds pant to stay cool? So do foxes, coyotes, wolves and all kinds of dogs. Since these creatures are wrapped up in thick layers of feathers or wearing fur coats, they find it impractical to change clothes just because a spell of hot weather comes along.

So they pant "hot pants" to keep their cool.

Besides this rapid intake and output of air to carry away excess heat, birds also fluff their feathers so breezes can penetrate and cool their skin. During extremely hot weather most animals tend to hole up somewhere until the cool of the evening.

Deer are seldom seen during the middle of the day when it is hot. They have sense enough to bed down in a thicket. Squirrels also move to lower ground near streams during hot weather, although they have another method of keeping cool. Occasionally one will be seen lolling on its back on a high limb where the breezes can cool its belly. Raccoons do the same.

One early morning a friend was awakened by a scuffling sound outside his bedroom window. He looked out and saw a cottontail rabbit busily hollering out a place in the flower bed where it had been sprinkled the night before. Its work done, the bunny thumped its hind legs and snatched down into the cool earth for a day of peaceful rest. Other animals follow a similar example.

Any dog foolish enough to try chasing a rabbit in hot weather has a tough job ahead of him. Proving he is no dumb bunny, the rabbit won't take off in long, exhausting runs but will dodge around in the brush in short sprints while the dog wears himself out in the heat.

Early season rabbit hunters often cuss out their dogs for a seeming inability to straighten out a rabbit track, yet it is the little game animal which refuses to get out and run vigorously during warm weather. In a fur coat, that would be murder!

While creatures with fur or feathers are apt to slow down during hot weather, just the opposite is true of the cold-blooded wildlife. Even reptiles have their limits, though. Snakes prefer plenty of warmth but they can't stand too much heat. A snake kept right in a hot sun for too long will be killed by it.

Those who have watched lizards in the desert lands have also noticed something interesting. Occasionally these little creatures may pause on hot rocks to roll over on their backs and wave their feet in the air to cool them.

Only those of us who make up the human race seem to feel we must keep going full blast during the heat of a summer day. This has made it necessary for us to resort to such innovations as air conditioning, hot pants and teeny bikinis.

As an observant and appreciative male animal, we must say the latter items prove that the fur and feather-type creatures don't know everything!

The first area of this rolling gallery features a "Vision of Creativity" by way of programmed slides and directs attention to the heritage of art from earliest recorded time.

The second area includes glass show cases displaying objects that reflect ancient and historical civilizations, while a three depicts the work of creative minds which have discovered new forms in the commonplace things of nature.

Also included in Artrain are examples of creative work from the "savage" to Frank Lloyd Wright; from architectural and industrial design through sculpture, painting, printmaking and pottery.

Several "artists-in-residence" will be displaying their skills for all to see. In use will be a kiln, a potters wheel and facilities for printmaking.

It is anticipated that many area school children will tour Artrain as well as local people and many from a wide area in Otsego and surrounding counties.

The Chesapeake and Ohio, Grand Trunk Western and Penn Central railroads donated the passenger cars and caboose. Michigan Railroads Association provides the steam locomotive and logistical traffic support for moving the train from city to city.
